I’m going to visit Vaucluse House. The front of the house looks like this.
From the back, Vaucluse House looks like this.
We will meet a guide who will tell us many interesting facts and stories.
When I go inside the house I will visit different kinds of rooms.
If I have something to say
I will put up my hand.
In the kitchen we will sit around the big table and talk about healthy food choices.
The guide will tell me when it’s ok to touch. The rest of the time I will just look.
The rope barriers will show me where I can stand.
Outside in the garden, we will learn about bush foods eaten by the local aboriginal people.
In the kitchen garden we will stay on the paths and look at the vegetable plants.
In the potting shed, each of us will plant a bean seed. Our guide will show us how.
My teacher will write my name on my pot, and carry it back to school for me so I can watch my bean plant grow.
After I eat my lunch we will play some old-fashioned games. Our teachers will explain the rules.
Vaucluse House looks fun and interesting and I’m looking forward to my visit.
